Participants, cont.

Hillel Newman
Israeli Consulate, Boston

Daniel Philpott, University of Notre Dame
Jim Rice, Sojourners

Jim Skillen, Center for Public Justice

Corwin Smidt
The Henry Institute for the Study of Christianity and Politics—Calvin College

Carol Swain, Vanderbilt University

Donald Wagner
North Park University, Chicago

Evangelicals for Middle East Understanding

Richard Wright, Gordon College

Cosponsors

Center for Public Justice

Council for Christian Colleges & Universities

Ethics & Public Policy Center

Evangelical Environmental Network

Evangelicals for Middle East Understanding

Evangelicals for Social Action

Friends of Sabeel—North America

The Henry Institute for the Study of Christianity and Politics—Calvin College

National Coalition of Blacks for Reparations in America

Sojourners

Wilberforce Forum/Prison Fellowship Ministries

Faneuil Hall

Built in 1742 and given to the town of Boston by French merchant Peter Faneuil, the hall of the same name was built as a central marketplace, offering a food market on the first floor and a space for public meetings on the second. In the mid-1700s, Faneuil Hall was host to Samuel Adams and his compatriots as they planned Boston’s revolutionary activity, earning Faneuil Hall its long-standing nickname “Cradle of Liberty.” Antislavery advocates held numerous rallies in the 1840s and 1850s, and women’s suffrage and the preservation of the Union were also the subjects of large gatherings at the hall. Indeed, Faneuil Hall’s historical significance has earned it a place as one of the 16 sites that make up Boston’s famed Freedom Trail.

Faneuil Hall’s first floor continues to operate as a market while the second floor is primarily the Great Hall, which remains a public meeting space. National issues continue to be discussed from the stage that has seen luminaries such as Frederick Douglass, Daniel Webster and Susan B. Anthony champion historic causes.

Tracy Kuperus
Program Director

Debbie Drost and Toby Hanchett
Program Coordinators

For further information, parking, directions:
Email: ccs@gordon.edu
www.gordon.edu/ccs/conferences

Open to the Public without Charge

A Biannual Symposium Sponsored by
The Center for Christian Studies
Gordon College

Center for Christian Studies
255 Grapevine Road
Wenham, Massachusetts 01984
Purpose of Collegium: To model respectful conversation between those holding different theistic perspectives on important contemporary issues

Schedule

Friday—November 7
Gordon College—Wenham, MA
Presidents Dining Room
Lane Student Center

9:00–11:30 A.M.—Session I
Normative Principles and International Politics: Is Justice Possible?

Moderator: Ivy George, Gordon College

Speakers:
- Daniel Philpott, University of Notre Dame
- Alberto Coll, U.S. Naval War College

1:30–4:00 P.M.—Session II
Global Environmental Policy and Global Warming: How to Heal our Planet

Moderator: Richard Wright, Gordon College, Emeritus

Speakers:
- Henry Hengeveld, Environment Canada
- Robert Mendelsohn, Yale School of Forestry and Environmental Studies

Saturday—November 8
Faneuil Hall—Boston, MA
Great Hall
(located on second floor)

9:00–11:30 A.M.—Session III
The Middle East: How to Heal Tensions

Moderator: Ron Mahurin, Council for Christian Colleges and Universities

Speakers:
- Marc Ellis, Baylor University
- Naim Ateek, Sabeel Ecumenical Liberation Theology Center
- Hillel Newman, Israeli Consulate, Boston
- R. Albert Mohler Jr., Southern Baptist Theological Seminary

1:30–4:00 P.M.—Session IV
Reparations for Slavery and Its Aftermath: A Just Solution?

Moderator: Christopher Lydon, Whole Wide World

Speakers:
- Dorothy Lewis, National Coalition of Blacks for Reparations in America
- Steven Mintz, University of Houston
- Allen Guelzo, Eastern University
- Carol Swain, Vanderbilt University

Participants

Mark Amstutz
Wheaton College, Illinois

Naim Ateek
Sabeel Ecumenical Liberation Theology Center

Jim Ball, Evangelical Environmental Network/Evangelicals for Social Action

Marc Ellis, Baylor University

Laura Fabrycky
Ethics & Public Policy Center

Ivy George, Gordon College

Allen Guelzo, Eastern University

Henry Hengeveld, Environment Canada

Sandra Joireman, Wheaton College, Illinois

Dorothy Lewis, National Coalition of Blacks for Reparations in America

Christopher Lydon, Whole Wide World

Ron Mahurin
Council for Christian Colleges & Universities

Robert Mendelsohn
Yale School of Forestry and Environmental Studies

Steven Mintz, University of Houston

R. Albert Mohler Jr.
Southern Baptist Theological Seminary