Videographer

You’re an artist who wields the camera as their paintbrush, embellishing the world through cinematography.

You’re a creative storyteller who speaks best through the screen, and you get giddy about framing the perfect shot.

You’re a brand champion who can capture core brand tenants (think personality and messaging) and innovate new ways of presenting them.

You can oscillate between big picture and granular details as you take videos from strategy to storyboarding to production and launch.

You speak Gen Z, understand the role of video in communicating today, and are an early adopter of new trends and technologies.

You’re a people person who gets excited by the idea of sharing the stories of a Christian learning community and the transformation that happens within it.

And it probably goes without saying, but you’re a whiz with the camera and a ninja with editing.

You’d be energized by your day-to-day activities involving:

- Spinning around the quad on a golf cart with the president to capture a College update.
- Rubbing shoulders with our Scottie Lion mascot for fundraising promos.
- Loading your gear into a kayak to film a recruitment video from the middle of Gull Pond.

If this describes you, you might be the next videographer at Gordon College.
